Critically Appraised Topics

The Occupational Therapy Faculty & Students at the University of Wisconsin-La Crosse (UW-L)
Invite you to the 9th Annual Critically Appraised Topic (CAT)
Research Presentations

Second Year Occupational Therapy Students have been researching several commonly used interventions in occupational therapy and they are now ready to share their work with you. These short presentations will provide you with the latest research on common and new occupational therapy interventions. They also will present information on a number of different outcome measures relevant to occupational therapy practice.

The event will involve short and concise presentations by groups of students followed by time for questions and comments. We hope you will take the opportunity to discuss this research with the students.
