Colleagues,

As you know, the Chancellor this morning announced that the campus would transition to 'virtual/remote' learning after the Thanksgiving holiday.

While this transition has a significant impact for our student community, I recognize that there will continue to be a need to support students who remain on-campus and various other office activities. Operationally, the campus will remain open for our students. For all operational questions related to your department's expectations during this period, please consult with your Dean or Vice-Chancellor.

I recognize that this transition and the holidays may also pose challenges with staffing. Employees are discouraged from travel or gathering in groups for this Thanksgiving holiday. Employees who do travel or gather, and who would normally be expected to be on campus after the holiday, will be asked to follow the standard quarantine procedures that have been employed in the past. I am available for any consultation you may have regarding these staffing concerns either before or after the holiday. Each scenario most likely will need to be handled case-by-case.

These are challenging times. Know that HR continues to provide you access to resources on our "Chair/Supervisor Support Team Channel" and on our website. Please do not hesitate to contact me should you have any questions or concerns.

Regards,

Carri
