POST-DOCTORAL FELLOWSHIPS

2015-2016 Post-doctoral Fellowship in Psychology

The post-doctoral fellowship is designed for graduates of a doctoral psychology program who are seeking licensure and are interested in providing services in a university setting. The majority of the fellow’s time will be spent delivering clinical services, with the remaining time involved in outreach, consultation, receiving supervision, and other clinic activities.

Qualifications and Stipend

Strong preference will be given to those applicants who have completed all requirements for a doctoral degree in counseling or clinical psychology prior to the fellowship start date. Applicants who are all but dissertation (ABD) may be considered. A completed APA/APPIC approved internship is preferred. Qualified candidates should have strong clinical skills in the areas of treatment, assessment, and crisis intervention. Some experience in a college/university counseling center is preferred. Preference will be given to applicants who have experience with mood disorders, AODA issues, eating disorders, ADHD and/or conduct issues. There are two post-doctoral vacancies. This is a twelve-month fellowship with a start date of August 10, 2015 and an end date of August 9, 2016. Each fellowship position carries a stipend of $26,000 with medical benefits, university holidays, and additional vacation/sick leave.

University of Wisconsin – La Crosse Counseling and Testing Center

The UW-L Counseling & Testing Center (CTC) offers comprehensive counseling services and works closely with the campus Student Health Center to offer medical and psychiatric services as appropriate. Our campus values the importance of mental health, and the CTC staff works in close collaboration with numerous campus offices and constituents. The full range of clinical, training, and developmental services are provided to both undergraduate and graduate students at UW-L. The Counseling and Testing Center focuses on providing effective short-term therapy; however, selected longer-term cases may be available to fellows.

Our testing center offers a variety of national testing programs such as ACT, Praxis, and GRE to UW-L students and local community members. Additionally, counseling center staff may provide psychological assessments and interpretation for clients and groups. CTC also offers workshops and individual sessions focusing on academic skills such as test preparation and managing test anxiety.
Fellow Activities

The fellow is expected to provide individual and group counseling services, as well as triage assessments, intake assessments, crisis intervention, educational presentations, prevention programming, training activities, outreach, consultation, and other administrative activities in which the staff participates. Fellows are responsible for leading a therapy or psychoeducational group. Fellows will be trained in AD/HD evaluation and conduct AD/HD evaluations. The fellow will also provide supervision to a master’s level practicum student. The fellow has the opportunity to be a member of Counseling and Testing Center committees as well as other university-wide committees. The fellow also has the opportunity to create a pilot outreach program and implement that program. There are no after hours on-call responsibilities for this position. Fellows receive one hour of individual clinical supervision per week from a primary supervisor, one hour of group supervision per week from a secondary supervisor, one hour of group case consultation per week, and one hour of staff training per week. Fellows are provided flexible time to study for licensure. Fellows also have the opportunity to choose a training rotation. Potential training rotation options may include participation in UW-L’s CARE (Campus Assessment Response and Evaluation) Team, which conducts threat assessment and behavioral intervention for students of concern, training in eating disorders treatment, or a focus on outreach programming.

Employment will require successful completion of a criminal background check.

To Apply, Please Submit:

A letter of interest, a current vitae, copies of transcripts of all graduate work, and three letters of recommendation from individuals familiar with your clinical skills (letters should be submitted directly from references, preferably via email)

The position will remain open until it is filled. Priority will be given to applications received by February 6, 2015. Applicants offered an interview will be given the option of a Skype or on-site interview.
